Their Attorneys Hint They May Start Graveyard Without a Permit.

A somewhat gingery letter from Castle & Withington, representing the Japanese whose request to open a Buddhist cemetery at Moiliili was denied last week, was read at the Board of Health meeting yesterday.

President Pinkham on reading the letter threw a little cayenne pepper into the pot. So assured was he of the ground on which the Board stood, the Board left the matter entirely in his hands.

The attorneys spoke of the "great disappointment" with which the refusal had been received by their clients and a little further on extended the phrase to "great surprise and disappointment." They spoke of the suitability of the proposed site, in soil conditions, for burial purposes and, asking to be informed of the Board's authority for denying the request, closed with a hint that the Buddhists might start the cemetery anyway.

"Humph," Mr. Pinkham commented as he folded up the missive. "There are more ways than one of skinning a cat."

"Have you referred it to the Attorney General," Mr. Smith asked.

"I have not," the president answered. "There are two or three ways of doing it. According to that," he proceeded while Dr. Wayson was beginning to say something, "anybody can start a cemetery in his back yard."

Dr. Wayson did not discuss the question further but moved that the matter be left in the hands of the president. This was seconded and carried.

OTHER MATTERS.

The Board passed a schedule of salaries of Government physicians submitted by the president with explanations. It was estimated on the respective services rendered, the difficulties of travel, etc., in each case. In many cases it was admitted that the offered compensation was very meager, though the slender allowance made by the Legislature did not permit of anything better.

Dr. J. S. B. Pratt was appointed general health officer, a position for which a salary is appropriated. As the title indicates, Dr. Pratt will attend to any service in town or country, relating to the public health, as the board or its executive may direct.

Gratification was expressed by the president for the generosity of Surgeon General Wyman in sending Dr. Currie here as a resident specialist to assist the Territorial health department in watching against contagious disease from overseas and stamping out anything of the kind that may steal into the islands.

Those constituting the meeting were President L. E. Pinkham, Fred. C. Smith, Mark P. Robinson, D. Kalanokalani and Dr. Wayson.

PRINCE FUSHIMI SAILS FOR HOME

Enthusiasm of the Japanese
Lasts Until Monmouth Gets Away.

Prince Fushimi was given an enthusiastic send-off at the sailing of the British cruiser Monmouth yesterday afternoon, on this occasion the school children taking the principal part in the ceremony, assembling at the naval dock to speed the parting guest by the singing of Japanese patriotic airs and the waving of hundreds of flags. The British cruiser was escorted out of the harbor by the Japanese sampan fleet, while daylight fireworks boomed and sent their paper emblems floating off seaward. As on the arrival of the Prince the waterfront was crowded by the enthusiastic Japanese, the sentries at the entrances of the wharves having some little difficulty with those most insistent on entering to see the last of their imperial guest. Acting Governor Atkinson, Consul General Saito and Consul Forster were at the dock at the sailing and were among the last to wish the Prince a safe and comfortable trip.

Yesterday morning the Prince and his party visited the Bishop Museum, being greeted there by the trustees and shown through the many galleries. What most interested the visitor was the display of feather cloaks, capes and helmets and the other insignia of the departed royalty of Hawaii. At the museum an audience was granted to the officers of the Japanese benevolent societies, who explained the nature and scope of their work to the Prince. He expressed a great interest in the efforts of the society and showed his commendation by presenting the officers with $300 to be used in their good work.

Returning to the Young Hotel a reception was held, a number of the prominent Japanese residents of Honolulu being formally presented. S. M. Damon and W. O. Smith were also among the callers on the Prince.

On behalf of the Japanese school children, Dr. Haida presented Prince Fushimi with bouquets of Hawaiian flowers, gifts appreciated and for which suitable thanks were returned. More substantial still was a donation made by the Prince to the Japanese community, a sum of $200 being left by him for the entertainment of those who had honored him the previous evening in the torchlight parade.

An audience was granted also to Y. Ishii, a leader in the Red Cross Society, who explained the work of the society here.

After luncheon the Prince spent the time intervening until his departure for the cruiser Monmouth in smoking cigarettes in the hotel parlor, which was given over to his exclusive use during his short stay. The Prince also received a few delegations, among them being one headed by Rev. Motokawa, who presented a report of the charity work carried on among the Honolulu Japanese. The report showed that $11,000 had been contributed and dispensed wisely. The Prince expressed his gratification and said he hoped the good work would continue.

About 2 o'clock there was considerable bustle in the lobby. The Prince's attendants brought parcels there, and a large assortment of valises and satchels passed out to carriages. There were bags of big luscious pineapples and many other island delicacies for the Prince's table en route to Yokohama.

During one wait the Prince went over to the grand piano and stood by it idly fingering the keys. It was not exactly a Japanese composition, nor a European that he picked out, but it was tuneful.

PRESENTS SOUVENIRS OF VISIT.
Before leaving the hotel for the waiting vessel the Prince distributed a number of handsome presents to those who had accompanied his party during their visit. Acting Governor Atkinson was the recipient of a beautiful souvenir, and Chief Detective Taylor and Officer Reeves were each presented with handsome silver cigarette cases with gold crests, souvenirs that will be treasured by the recipients.

GOVERNOR ATKINSON'S MESSAGE.
The last message from the imperial visitor came by wireless last night, being received at the naval station office about eight o'clock. The message was addressed to Acting Governor Atkinson and was as follows:

"Prince Fushimi thanks Governor Atkinson for his great kindness and says goodbye to him and his family."

SOUVENIRS FOR THE PRINCE.
With him to Japan Prince Fushimi carries a number of souvenirs of his two short stay here. The moss-rock from the Waianae mountains was taken aboard the Monmouth early yesterday morning and will in the future occupy a prominent place in the garden of the Prince's residence in Tokio. Another souvenir is an illuminated report of the visit of the Prince to Honolulu, containing copies of the messages sent announcing his coming, the comments of the various papers of all nationalities on the visit, the program of the days spent here and the press reports on the same. This souvenir was prepared by Secretary Tsuchiya of the Japanese Consulate.

A remarkable espionage trial recently closed in the supreme court of Germany at Leipzig. The accused man was an ex-lieutenant in the Austrian army named Bartmann, and the charge against him was of spying in Germany on behalf of France. His defense was that he really wished to deceive France in the interests of Germany. At the last German maneuvers, after getting a commission from a French agent for "information," he offered himself to a German staff officer as a counter spy, but was rejected on account of his antecedents. Soon after this he was
